Stars play on despite injuries

By Joel Anderson
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — It's been an unusually painful month for the NHL's top team.

The Dallas Stars have endured the loss of two All-Stars to injuries, just as Ottawa and Vancouver have closed the gap in the race for the Presidents Trophy and home-ice advantage in the playoffs.

The Stars enter the final month of the regular season without much hope of seeing goaltender Marty Turco and power forward Bill Guerin on the ice within the next two weeks.

Dallas remains atop the league standings by relying on a roster worth more than $60 million, but there still may be changes in the works. The NHL's trade deadline is Tuesday, and the Stars may be in the market for reinforcements down the stretch.

"We're going to assess the situation and do what we can to improve the team," general manager Doug Armstrong said. "I think we would be looking to do that whether Bill and Marty are hurt or not."

Armstrong has been successful improving the team so far.

Shortly after the Stars missed last season's playoffs for the first time in six years, Armstrong began overhauling the organization. He hired outsider Dave Tippett as coach, inserted Turco into the starting lineup and signed a slew of highly sought free agents, including Guerin.

As a result, Dallas has been at or near the top of the Western Conference standings for much of the season: Guerin, Turco and center Mike Modano were named All-Stars; and a team used to the iron-fisted regime of coach Ken Hitchcock easily adjusted to the more laid-back Tippett.

GUERIN

With Wednesday night's win over the fading Chicago Blackhawks, Dallas has already surpassed last season's victory and point totals. The Stars have 37 victories and 91 points in 67 games. They had 36 wins and 90 points in 82 games last year.

"This is by far the deepest team I've ever played on," said defenseman Philippe Boucher, who was with Tippett in Los Angeles last year. "We are deep, but the games aren't going to get any easier."

Not with eight of the Stars' remaining 15 games against teams in the playoff hunt, including two showdowns against Vancouver.

Veteran goaltender Ron Tugnutt has been erratic in 10 starts since Turco went down with a sprained ankle on Feb. 11.

Tugnutt's performances have ranged from a shutout against Chicago on Feb. 23 to allowing five goals against Boston and against lowly Buffalo. Tugnutt has a 2.41 goals-against average and a .899 save percentage.

That's solid for a 35-year-old backup, but not quite the NHL best 1.77 GAA and .931 save percentage that Turco has posted in his first year replacing longtime All-Star Ed Belfour.

"Ron has been sporadic since Marty has gone down," Armstrong said, "but we're confident he'll get more consistent."

Even when Tugnutt has been at his best, Dallas has had the luxury of turning to a mix of veterans and youngsters to fill the skates of Guerin. He's lost for at least the rest of the regular season with a severe thigh injury that has him in a Dallas hospital.

The Stars have scored 70 goals in their last three games without Guerin, and Wednesday's victory over Chicago, seven players scored as Dallas matched a season-high offensive effort.

"You can't rely on three or four guys and expect to win," said wing Claude Lemieux, who came to Dallas from Phoenix in a Jan. 17 trade. "You look at the great team and your top guys are always going to get hurt. It's going to come down to everybody."

Now it's up to Armstrong and Tippett to determine if they have enough for a championship run.

"I think we have the pieces in place to compete for the Stanley Cup," Armstrong said. "We did a lot of our work getting depth in the off-season."

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Men's tennis begins spring break against SLU, Oregon

The Texas A&M men's tennis team will attempt to improve on its 5-0 home record when it hosts Southeastern Louisiana University and the University of Oregon Saturday at the A&M Tennis Center.

The match against SLU will begin at noon and the Oregon match will start off 6 p.m.

The Aggies will also face Abilene Christian University, No. 7 Duke University and open Big 12 play against Colorado during the spring break home stretch.

Aggie baseball team to open home stretch against UTPA

After suffering two defeats on the road, the No. 22 Texas A&M baseball team has bounced back with two wins. Tuesday it beat the University of Texas-San Antonio 8-5 and followed that up with an extra inning 2-1 win over Southwest Texas State in Round Rock Wednesday.

Now the Aggies (12-4) welcome the University of Texas-Pan American (9-8) to Olsen Field for a three-game series starting Friday at 7 p.m. The Broncos of Pan American are coming off of winning two of three games against Texas A&M-Corpus Christi.

Friday night will see A&M sophomore Logan Kensing on the mound. Kensing has a 3-1 record with a 4.64 earned runs average. Senior Zach Dixon will get the start Saturday night and junior Brian Finch will start in Sunday's third game.

The Aggies will host Centenary (7-11) for a two-game series Tuesday and Wednesday before opening Big 12 Conference play against No. 16 Nebraska (7-2) at Olsen Field on Friday.

Wright

especially in a league like the Big 12. But Wright said he never worried about the expectations.

"I just want to be the best player I can be," Wright said. "I talked to Bernard about (the expectations) but I haven't really struggled with them."

A&M Head Coach Melvin Watkins said he recruited the high school All-American because he knew Wright would make an immediate impact on the A&M squad.

"The first time I saw him play I saw a lot of potential and knew he was a very talented basketball player," Watkins said.

Wright's teammates have welcomed his talent to the team, including King, the career Big 12 scoring leader. Some of King's critics wondered how he would react to sharing the spotlight with someone like Wright, but King said he never worried about it and wanted to play with Wright.

"I told him (before he committed to A&M) that we would be one of the best 1-2 punches in the nation," King said.

They have become one of the top duos in the Big 12, accounting for 44 percent of the Aggie offense.

"He is one of the best teammates I've ever had," King said. "He's been special to me and this team."

Wright said he hopes to help A&M become even better while he is here.

"All of my goals are team oriented," he said. "I want to be in the postseason every year."

Wright and company should get their first chance at the postseason in nine years this season. With one more win this year the Aggies should get a bid for the National Invitation Tournament.

Wright and the Aggies will face off against Oklahoma State University at 12:45 p.m. Saturday in Stillwater, Okla., before playing in the Big 12 Tournament, which begins next Thursday at American Airlines Arena in Dallas.
