Conoley said that she has a strong interest in undergraduate students, student activities and honors program at A&M will try to unite academic and student activities if approved. Prior was unavailable for comment because he is traveling until March 31.

The search committee will then A&M President Robert Gates, will interview Gates and Prior, Richardson said. Gates will discuss the matter with the committee before making a final decision.

An open reception was held for the campus community to meet Conoley Tuesday, a similar reception will be held next week for Richardson said.

Earlier this year, Conoley expanded the authority of the position by requiring all presidents to report directly to the provost, rather than to Gates.

was intense lightning in the area at the time of the fire, but the fire department wanted to rule out any accidental causes.

"We determined it was weather-related, a lightning strike," he said. "There was physical evidence and hot patterns where the fire was at, plus we had plenty of witnesses say they thought (the lightning) hit them (the apartments)."

The fire began in an upstairs apartment and then spread to a second unit, Humphreys said.

Graduate student Stan Glagolenko said he was doing homework when he heard a loud bang.

"Everything just shut down," he said.

No one in the one-bedroom apartment where the fire started was home at the time of the fire, but Adrienne Bailey, the apartment manager, said she has contacted the residents and they have arranged for places to stay.

"I wanted to make sure everyone was OK and to get everything taken care of," she said.

Bailey said the insurance company has been contacted and is assessing the damage. The completion date for the apartment repair is unknown at this time.

Humphreys said the fire department responded to 10 weather-related calls between 9 p.m. and 11 p.m. Tuesday night.

Fires caused by lightning are uncommon in College Station, Humphreys said.

"It is what insurance companies call 'acts of God,'" he said.

Meyer said the emergency protocol does not apply solely to terrorist-related issues.

"The topics covered are intended to be for a variety of emergencies, including severe weather or chemical spills. They are most definitely not specific to terrorist attacks," Meyer said. "It is important that we do not lose focus and think of only terrorist threats when spring weather is coming with tornado watches, a far more likely event than any terrorist threat."

Meyer compiled the information, but the plan was a joint effort between EHSD, UPD and the state officials responsible for risk management, Meyer said.
