Sophomore Lester Cook stretches for a shot at the A&M Tennis Center.

Ags host Raider

THE BATTALION

Despite losing a close match to Oklahoma State last Sunday, the Texas A&M men's tennis team has climbed to a national ranking of No. 9 heading into this weekend's matches against No. 64 Texas Tech and No. 36 TCU.

The move in the polls places the Aggies (17-6, 2-1) at their highest point since the end of the 2001 season when the team reached No. 7.

The most recent move in the polls makes the Red Raiders' (13-4, 3-1) task this weekend appear even more daunting. The Aggies have won their first 13 home matches heading into the match.

"It is disappointing that we lost (to OSU)," said A&M Head Coach Tim Cass. "I think certainly now it made the chore very clear."

In order for the Aggies to stay in the Big 12 race against teams such as Baylor and Texas, the men most likely will have to win all of the conference matches on their schedule.

The Red Raiders come to College Station looking much improved over past years. Despite losing their last three matches, including a close match to No. 29

San Diego, the Red Raiders still shown signs of strength a 3-1 record in conference play.

But, with the three-game winning streak already facing more adversity came this week as freshman Diederik Groot was dismissed from team.

"This is a very difficult for me to do, especially since I have been playing so well and have a chance of making NCAA Tournament," said Head Coach Tim Cass. "Diederik violated team rules his work on the court was not to my standards."

Much of the Aggies' success can be attributed to the play of sophomore player Matijevic. He was named the 12 Player of the Week for the second straight time this week as he has won 12 straight matches, going undefeated in conference play.

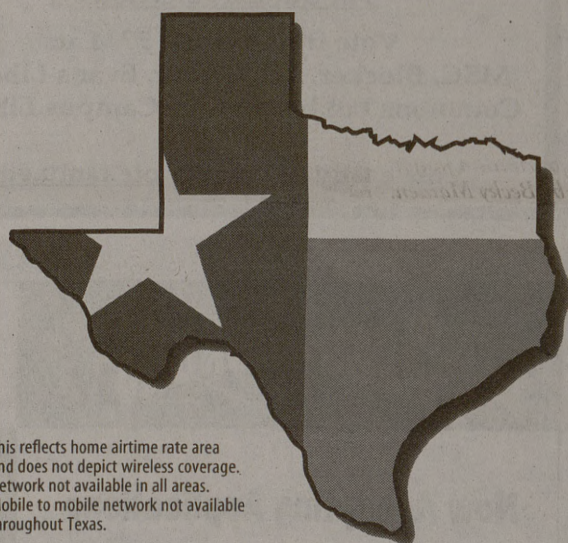

Matijevic is also teamed with sophomore Lester Cook as the No. 3 doubles team in the nation.

The Aggies are scheduled to finish their weekend match against TCU. The Horned Rangers (11-6) have won three of their four matches.

The Aggies host TCU on Friday at 6 p.m. and TCU on Sunday at 1:30 p.m.
