Kansas, Syracuse reach NCAA final

By Jim O'Connell
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW ORLEANS — The Kansas Jayhawks feature plenty of senior leadership and four starters who were in the Final Four last season. They're a very good man-to-man defensive team and have the country's best transition game on offense.

The Syracuse Orangemen start two freshmen and two sophomores, and they use a stifling 2-3 zone defense while running the offense through a versatile rookie who has spun, shot and slam-dunked his way to stardom.

Kansas and Syracuse will be together on the Superdome court on the final night of the college basketball season, but they are very different teams.

About the only thing similar are the men running the show.

Kansas' Roy Williams and Syracuse's Jim Boeheim are among the top five active coaches by winning percentage, but neither has won it all. Williams is in his fourth Final Four, Boeheim is in his third.

This won't be a traditional matchup, either. Kansas (30-7) runs a three-guard offense and Syracuse (29-5) stays in the zone.

So, a closer look is needed to determine who will be the national champion on Monday night.

Two of the best forwards in the country will be on opposite sides but won't be covering each other.

Kansas senior Nick Collison averages 18.5 points and 9.7 rebounds and runs the floor very well. He will have to be a force inside against the zone so the perimeter opens for the three-point shooters. Jeff Graves is the size for the Jayhawks at 6-foot-9 and 275 pounds. Like Collison, Graves picked up his rebounding during the tournament run, a key to getting the running game in gear.

Syracuse freshman Carmelo Anthony averages 22.3 points, 10 rebounds and about five "Wows" a game. His teammates have no problem with his star stature. He has taken 596 shots this season and one else has taken more than 360. His inside game relies on power from his 6-8, 220-pound frame, and he is shooting 44 percent from three-point range.

Experience is always considered a key at this stage of the season, and Kansas certainly has that. There will be a homecourt advantage from a crowd of 54,000-plus. Syracuse is used to playing in a dome, and sight lines have been a factor in some games played in huge buildings.

The last three national championship games were near blowouts, with the decisive game decided by 10 points. The MVP of each of those Final Fours was a senior. It's time for a change on both accounts. Syracuse 83, Kansas 82—Anthony becomes just the second freshman to be selected

Griffey out at least six weeks

By Joe Kay
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Ken Griffey Jr. will be out for at least six weeks as he recovers from a dislocated right shoulder.

Griffey landed on the shoulder while diving for a fly ball on Saturday, the third straight season that the Cincinnati Reds outfielder has suffered a major injury in March or April.

Dr. Timothy Kremchek popped the shoulder back into place at the ballpark on Saturday. X-rays and other tests found no fractures or major injury to the rotator cuff.

Griffey will try to rehabilitate the shoulder rather than have surgery, and optimistically could be playing again in six-to-10 weeks, Kremchek said. There is a possibility that he might have to have surgery anyway.

"If he had surgery now, he'd miss the season," Kremchek said, after examining Griffey on Sunday. "If we rehab him and he's unable to get back, he still has surgery and misses the season."

"Looking at the tests and examinations we've done on him, I think there's an excellent chance he'll be able to return this year."

The 33-year-old Griffey has been repeatedly sidelined by injuries since he returned to his hometown team in a February 2000 trade with Seattle.

He pulled a hamstring during that first season, then tore the same hamstring while rounding third base during an exhibition game in the final week of spring training 2001.

Six games into last season, he tore a tendon in his right knee while trying to change directions during a run-down between third and home. Griffey was limited to 28 homers the last two seasons.
