M.B. ZALE VISIONARY MERCHANT LECTURE SERIES
SIXTH ANNUAL LECTURE

Dr. Jeffrey L. Bleustein
Chairman of the Board & Chief Executive Officer
Harley-Davidson, Inc.

April 9, 2003 8:00 p.m.
George Bush Presidential Conference Center

This year, Harley-Davidson celebrates a century of riding. In 1903 William Harley and Arthur Davidson produced three motorcycles in a small wooden shed and today the Milwaukee-based company boasts the world's most unique and beloved motorcycles. The Harley Owners Group® is the world's largest motorcycle enthusiast club, with members in 115 countries.

Jeffrey Bleustein joined Harley-Davidson in 1975 and has led the company to innovations in both engineering and retailing. He transformed the dealer-owned retail stores into modern retail establishments and launched an aggressive licensing program that improved the Company's image while establishing a new and successful profit center. Under Bleustein's leadership, Harley-Davidson has been named Forbes' "Company of the Year" and Fortune has placed the company on its lists of "Most Admired Companies" and "Top 100 Companies to Work For."

The lecture is free to the public.

Motorcycle owners are encouraged to ride their bikes to the event.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Congress questions Halliburton dealings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Questioning whether Vice President Dick Cheney's former company has received favored treatment from the Pentagon, senior House Democrats asked Congress' investigative agency Tuesday to delve into contracts awarded Halliburton Co. over the past two years.

Halliburton's KBR subsidiary has a record of gouging the government in contracts awarded without competition, Reps. Henry Waxman of California and John Dingell of Michigan contended in a letter to the General Accounting Office.

Halliburton spokeswoman Wendy Hall said the lawmakers have ignored the exemplary record of the Houston-based firm that employed Cheney as chief executive officer from 1995 to 2000 and still pays him deferred compensation for his services during that period.

The lawmakers said federal procurement data showed that the government awarded KBR work worth more than $624 million from October 2000 through March 2002. Waxman is the senior minority member of the House Government Reform Committee, and Dingell holds the same position on the House Energy and Commerce Committee.

Postal rates will not rise until 2006

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans will get a three-year reprieve from higher postal rates under legislation that allows the Postal Service to save billions of dollars that would have otherwise gone into pension payments.

The bill, which would require the Postal Service to keep rates at current levels until 2006, passed 424-0 by the House Tuesday and now goes to President George W. Bush for his expected signature. The Senate passed the bill last week.

The legislation has strong support in the $900 billion mail industry, which has suffered recent years from the poor economy, lost volume, the anti-scare, increased competition from online banking and other electronic communication, and public aversion to rising prices.

The price of a first-class stamp was raised to 37 cents last July, the fifth increase since 1995 when the rate jumped from 29 cents to 29 cents.
