starting to come around as the Owls have benefited from strong play and tough opponents in the latter part of the season.

"We have played a lot of good teams in the second part of our season, and we feel very match-tough right now," Thu said. "Our girls are looking good and are prepared to fight hard at every spot in the lineup.'

A&M junior Jessica Roland crept into the national singles rankings at No. 100 this week, and has provided strong play all season long at No. 1 singles. She and junior doubles partner Roberta Spencer have also established themselves as a formidable tandem at No. 1 doubles.

With A&M holding an 18-8 all-time record against Rice, A&M Head Coach Bobby Kleinecke said his team is prepared to face its old conference nemesis.

"We always get a tough match out of Rice, who is one of our old SWC foes," he said. "The history in our matches has been very close, which is something we will have to be ready for."
