was evidence he took as man punches as he gave. The side was badly bruised under the eye, and blood was trickling down his cheek.

Still, Klitschko looked like winner in many ways. He won lot of fans with a gutty show proved he belonged among heavyweight elite and p tioned himself for some fights down the road. One of those could be rematch with Lewis, assumi the WBC champion does retire or go after a prop fight with Roy Jones Jr. in fall.

"I hope there will be rematch," Klitschko said. There would have been a immediate rematch if Klitschl had won because it was in the contract for the fight. Lewis under no obligation to figh

Klitschko again, though he sail he might do it. "I'm happy to give him rematch," Lewis said. "The I'll bust up the other side of his face, too.' Lewis came into the fig with some ready-made excuse He hadn't fought in a year sir stopping Mike Tyson and h only two weeks to adjust fighting a bigger fighter afterh original opponent, Kin Johnson, was injured. He wa also a bit soft around the midd and at 256 1/2 pounds the heav iest of his career.

The fact remains he is a 37-2001 Honda Shadow VLXDLX. Low year-old heavyweight who has been in some wars and may be hearing the clock begin to click History is not on Lewis' side; i the past only two heavyweigh champions retained their titles past age 36. That's what makes Klitschko so eager to get Lewis back into the ring as soon as he can. "For Lennox it is a different situation because time works against him," Klitschko said "Every day Lennox will get on day older.
