Donation

College Station, and he and his wife decided to donate her organs. Leslie was less than two months away from beginning her freshman year at A&M when the accident occurred. Leslie's heart, right lung, liver, both kidneys and pancreas were donated. Her mother, Marilyn Snell, said she believed that is what her daughter would have wanted.

"She had such a serving attitude, we knew she would want this," she said. "Whoever got her heart got the best part."

These are only a few of the stories being shared in this study. Those interested will have a chance to meet these individuals and learn more about organ donation at information tables set up in the Commons and Zachary on Nov. 4. More information is available at the Southwest Transplant Alliance's Web site, www.organ.org.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Ambushes kill 2 Americans, trigger spectacular blasts; Iraqi wants recall of army

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Deadly ambush teams struck U.S. Army targets from west to north in the arc of resistance around Baghdad, and the interim Iraqi leader called Sunday for an immediate mobilization of the old Iraqi army to help the harried Americans. The United States would "speed the process of relieving the burden on its troops" by recalling the disbanded Iraqi military, said Iyad Allawi, current president of the Iraqi Governing Council. The idea got a cool reception, however, from Baghdad's U.S.-led occupation authorities.

Attackers killed two U.S. soldiers in a clash outside the northern city of Kirkuk late Saturday, and others blasted a broken-down convoy in the western flashpoint city of Fallujah, setting off spectacular explosions from an ammunition truck.
