THE BATTALION

What would it be like to play in one of the biggest alternative rock bands of recent history? To hear screaming fans night after night play music you love with your best friends?

Not many people can live this fantasy, but for alternative rock band Eve 6, it's a daily routine week in and week out. On the heels of the band's latest release "It's All in Your Head," Eve 6 has continued its extensive world touring and is now on the road now in Good Charlotte.

While still in high school, Eve 6 achieved what only a handful of bands are able to do throughout their entire career. The band's self-titled 1998 debut release achieved platinum status while its members were still taking senior algebra and home economics at La Casa High School in Southern California.

With a new ambitious CD and powerhouse tour, Eve 6 has once again catapulted to the top of the music scene — which is not an easy feat for a band that many thought would head straight to one-hit wonder-dom. Fans of Eve 6 are welcoming the new songs and supporting their endeavors.

Martin Hunt, a junior political science and philosophy major, has been a longtime fan of Eve 6. He said the band's lyrics have qualities that other artists fail to capture.

"Even though they have a heavy sound, their lyrics flow with a rhyme," Hunt said. "Best of all, they actually make sense."
