they all look sandblasted or girly," Cazalas said.

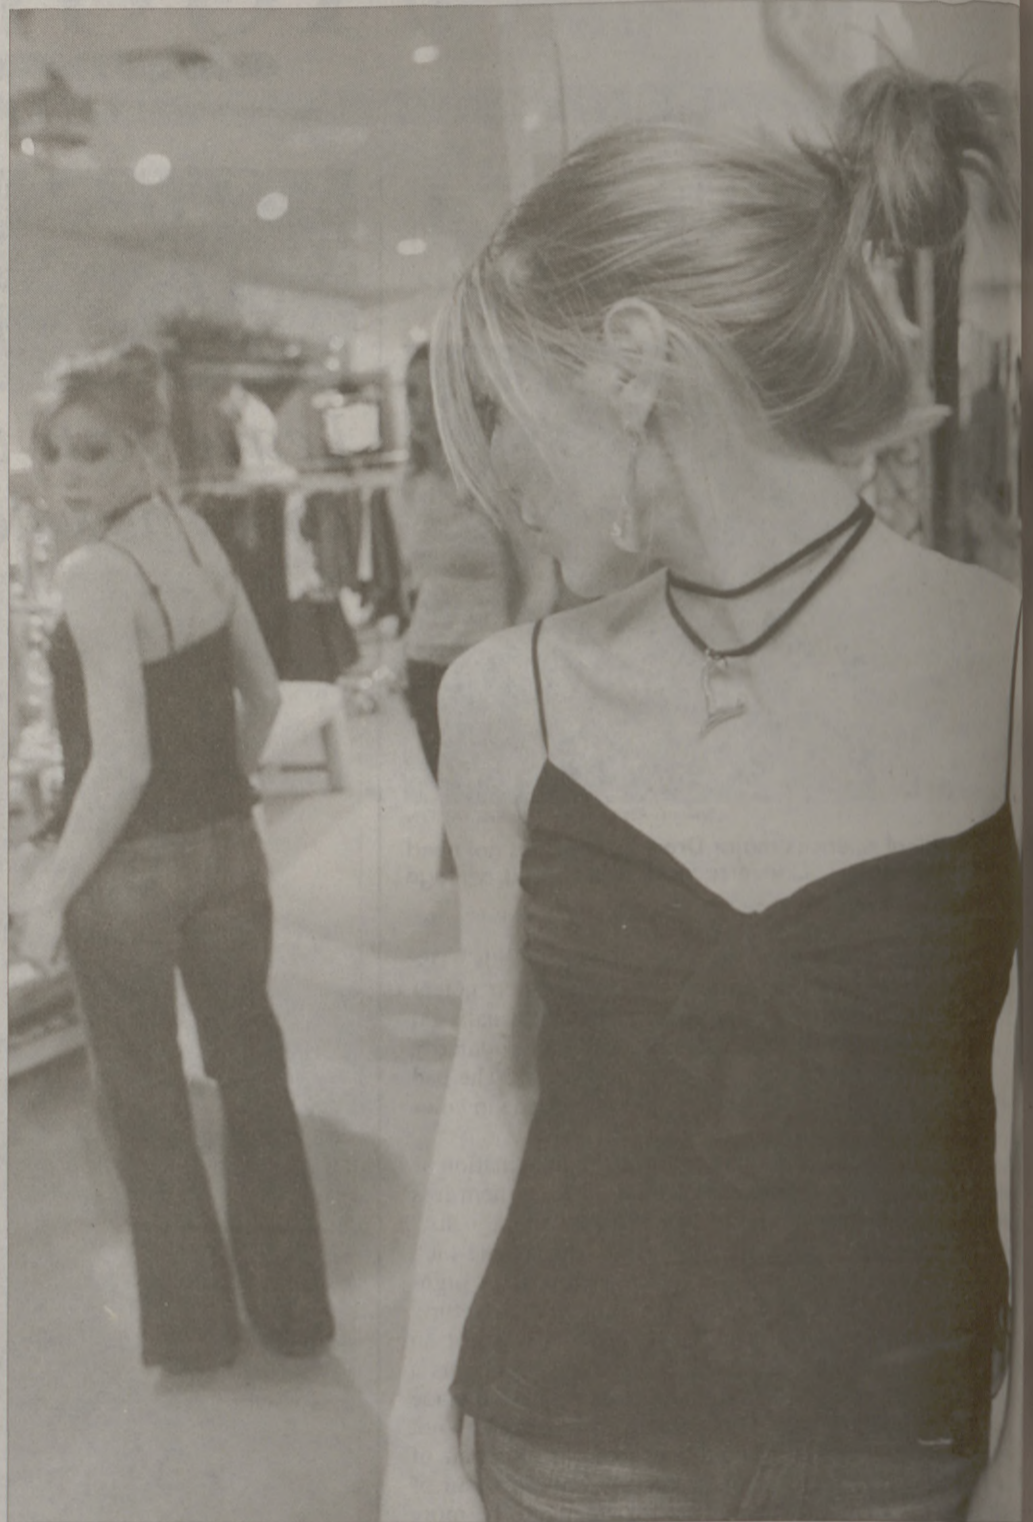

Light suggests Diesel Jeans. "They look good on guys, but there is not anyone in town who carries them, so you would have to go to Houston, Austin or Dallas to try some on," she said.

Light researches jeans early in both Los Angeles and Dallas and shared what to expect for jeans this spring.

"The extreme low jeans have dropped out," Light said. "The Seven jeans for the spring are all real soft and but remain rigid, which will help hold you in more."

For men's and women's jeans, the price depends on the wash of the jeans and the fibrex used.

"A lot of college kids are on tight budgets and cannot afford much," Light said. "It is not about the novelty but more about a great fitting pair of jeans for you."

SHARON AESCHBACH • THE BATTLE

Top left: Seven for all Mankind jeans (left) are better for dressy occasions than the equally priced AG jeans. However, both work with everything from a sequined top to a fitted T-shirt. The jeans pictured run anywhere from $105 to $140 at Charli located on University Dr. The Closet Door and For Your Eyes Only of College Station carry Seven jeans.

Above: High heels not only make you look taller, they contribute to the dressier jean look. Seven jeans do run long for shorter people, so resist the urge to dry them because they will shrink, leaving you with a pair of high waters that you will never wear. Black is always a favorite color to pair with the jeans because it is sleek and sleek.

of finding a normal pair of blue jeans. Sadly, there are not many options. Jeans for men have become funkier, from odd yellow tints to white, tiger-like stripes across the thigh with an unnecessary flare on the bottom. In the age of the metrosexual, made famous by the Fab Five of Queer Eye for the Straight Guy, it has become more difficult to find jeans for men that lack flare. In trying to find a normal jean, men must beware of buying overly-tapered jeans, because even Brad Pitt could not make that style look good. The best choice for a man on the market for jeans is a straight leg or slightly boot cut style.

Men do not need a party happening on their jeans. Keep it simple. And women, celebrate and feel liberated that you can purchase jeans this season that can be comfortably sat in without worrying about the plumber calling and wanting his crack back.

Above: The western look is hot once again. A cowboy hat paired with cowboy boots of any style and color works with this style of jeans. Seven and AG jeans have a flare, so the jeans fit perfectly over the boots. There are a lot of fun belts out right now as well, but beware of oversizing. With a belt, lose a loud necklace or earrings.

Left: Jeans are a classic and versatile standard that every closet should contain. Both department stores and local boutiques carry denim that should suit every price range.
