Courtney Love's arrest warrant thrown out

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A judge threw out an arrest warrant for rocker Courtney Love on Tuesday after she appeared for a court hearing.

LOVE

Superior Court Judge Eldon Fox issued the warrant last week after Love failed to appear for a hearing involving felony charges of illegal possession of two painkillers. Her attorney William Genego said Love couldn't make it then because of unspecified "security" reasons.

Superior Court Judge Lisa Hart Cole dismissed the warrant Tuesday and ordered Love back to court on March 16 for a preliminary hearing.

The sometimes outspoken Love, 39, was reserved in court and only said, "Yes, ma'am," when the judge asked if she would agree to the date.

The singer-actress has pleaded innocent to illegal possession of hydrocodone and oxycodone. Authorities said they discovered the painkillers when Love was taken to a hospital on Oct. 2 after being found outside an ex-boyfriend's house where she allegedly smashed windows.

She was charged separately with a misdemeanor count of being under the influence of a drug.

Love, lead singer of the group Hole and widow of grunge rocker Kurt Cobain, has a new album, "America's Sweetheart," out this month. She has appeared in such movies as "The People vs. Larry Flynn" and "Man on the Moon."

'Friends' star LeBlanc welcomes baby girl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Friends" star Matt LeBlanc has a new, cuddly friend of his own.

LeBlanc, 36, and his wife, Melissa, welcomed the arrival of the couple's first child Feb. 8, according to People.com. The little girl is called Marina.

The couple married in May. Melissa has two children from a previous marriage.

On "Friends," LeBlanc found fame as soap-opera actor Joey Tribbiani, a blockheaded ladies' man with a passion for sports, the TV show "Baywatch" and homemade jam. His dimwitted character is getting his own "Joey" spin-off show after this season.

Starr Jones gets surprise proposal at All-Star game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The West won bragging rights during basketball's All-Star game, but TV personality Starr Jones also walked away from the game with something to show off: a ring.

A stunned Jones accepted a diamond engagement ring from boyfriend Al Reynolds during Sunday's game, which the West won 136-132 over the East.

Denzel Washington led the cheers as "The View" daytime talk show host covered her face in amazement.

On ABC's "The View," Jones is paired up with Barbara Walters, Meredith Vieira, Joy Behar and Elisabeth Hasselbeck. Jones also is a spokeswoman for Payless ShoeSource and has begun a line of shoes for the firm.

Jones, a lawyer and former prosecutor, debuted on television in 1991 when she started moonlighting as a studio commentator for Court TV during the William Kennedy Smith rape trial.

She later she became the NBC legal correspondent for "Today" and "Nightly News," covering the Mike Tyson rape case and the Rodney King police brutality trial.

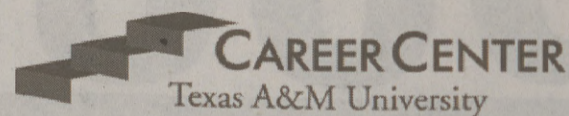

That success led to her own syndicated show, "Jones & Jury." In 1995, Jones was named a senior correspondent and chief legal analyst for "Inside Edition" and assigned the O.J. Simpson criminal and civil trials.
