Tennis

"It's one of those matches out of conference that we always look forward to," Brown said. "Coach Cass and I enjoy the competitiveness of each other, and I think that our teams are going to have that same characteristic."

The Aggies, who just returned home from competing in the 115th Annual Pacific Coast Men's Doubles Championships in La Jolla, Calif., hope the intensity of the match will fight off any signs of fatigue.

"It's been a tough couple of months playing so many early matches on the road," Cass said. "This is one of our last ones, so hopefully we'll kind of take advantage of that and go out and have a good showing."

The Aggies had mixed success at La Jolla. Their No. 1-ranked doubles team of Lester Cook and Ante Matijevic advanced five rounds, eventually losing in the finals to William and Richard Barker of Rice University.

The Aggies, however, already knew what they had in their No. 1 team. They had hoped that the tournament would help solidify their No. 2 and No. 3 teams, but the bracket make-up prevented them from doing that, Cass said.

"If you won your first round and lost your second round, you were done. But if you lost your first round, you went into a (consolation bracket). And unfortunately, we ran into a lot of good teams in the second round," Cass said. "I was hoping we would get a little more play from some of our other teams, so I didn't learn as much as I would have liked to."

Despite the lack of play at La Jolla, it looks as if freshmen Bret Joelson and Marvin Rolle have the inside track on the No. 2 spot. The newcomers entered the Intercollegiate Tennis Association's rankings at No. 37 this week.

Whatever team Cass decides to put on the court Wednesday, LSU will provide a good test. The Tigers' team of junior Peter Richman and freshman Ken Skupski is undefeated at No. 2 doubles this year.

This match is a big one for the Aggies. They are facing a ranked team in their last road match for more than three weeks.

"We need a big win. I think we've beat them the last three or four times we've played them, so I think they'll be hungry to play us," said senior captain Khaled El Dorry. "They play well at home, they're a very competitive team, and it's a huge rivalry, so we're looking forward to playing them, and hopefully we'll come up with a win."

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Men's baseball wins in Houston

The University of Houston baseball team went through four pitchers during Tuesday's game at Cougar Field in Houston, two in the eighth inning. But it was not enough to overcome Texas A&M, who won 8-7.

The Aggies closed strong, scoring two in the sixth and four in the seventh to overcome a three-point deficit they fell into during a five-point Houston run in the sixth.

The Aggies took the early lead, going up 2-0 in two innings, scoring senior second baseman Erik Schindewolf in the first and Andrew Baldwin in the second. Baldwin's run was the only home run by the Aggies.

Houston then rallied with a pair of runs in the third and fifth and a staggering five runs in the sixth.

Junior Kyle Marlatt started for the Aggies pitching 5.1 innings and giving up six runs, nine hits and five errors.

A&M changed pitchers twice, bringing in freshman Janson Meyer to pitch three innings—giving up one run, four hits and one error. Freshman Blake Rampy pitched half an inning giving up no runs and no hits with two strikeouts.

The Aggies' next game is against University of Santa Clara 7 p.m. Friday at Olsen Field.

Aggie women lose to Oklahoma, 60-47

The Texas A&M women's basketball team finished its season Tuesday with a 60-47 defeat to No. 19 Oklahoma in the first round of the Big 12 Tournament in Dallas.

The Aggies led at halftime, and senior guard Toccara Williams played all 40 minutes, but scored only 13 points off five field goals and three free throws. She shot 33 percent from the floor overall.

Williams was the high scorer for the Aggies, with junior guard Charlette Castile and sophomore forward Tamea Scales both scoring 11 points.

Castile was five for 15 in field goals and one for six in three-pointers.

Scales was four for 10 in field goals and three for four in free throws.

NFL cancels third pregame show

NEW YORK (AP) — The NFL canceled plans for a third opening-game kickoff concert following Janet Jackson's risqué halftime show at the Super Bowl in Houston.

The league held free downtown concerts before its season-opening Thursday night games the last two seasons, but NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said Tuesday that commissioner Paul Tagliabue put an end to the concerts.

Aiello said there might be a different sort of event to coincide with the game, including musical entertainment.

Neither the site of the game nor the participants have been determined.

Tagliabue informed the owners of the decision on Feb. 12.
