Packing

have worn on every holiday for the past eight years. Try belts with attractive tips or belts made from interesting skin or cloth finishes. A belt can make or break an outfit, and women should feel free to be flashy in this department in the form of metallics, rhinestones or silvers.

It can be difficult to find a pair of shoes that is comfortable and attractive. Sadly, stiletto heels and the old-fashioned cobblestone streets of Europe do not mix well, especially after the bars close. Women should look for pointy shoes to add some style while remaining comfortable. Men can wear either sneakers that match the shirt they are wearing or dressier black shoes.

As always, men have it easier, as they can simply throw a casual sports coat on over the jeans and shirt they have been wearing all day. The best in sports coats are those with smaller designs because they allow more freedom for trouser and accessory choices. Jewelry is the finishing touch for a nighttime adventure, whether a strand of pearls or chandelier earrings. Leave the expensive baubles at home because you will probably attract the wrong kind of mysterious stranger.

Keeping your belongings organized and packing lighter will relieve stress and make everything easier. Experience as much as you can while travelling in style, and as Yves Saint Laurent said, "Fashion fades; style is eternal."

Top: By throwing a sports coat and belt over his outfit, Julian Lopez, a junior management major, is ready for a night out. Big jewelry like Alina Walker, an English Literature graduate student is wearing also adds to her look. Bottom: Lopez pairs a lightweight buttondown shirt with khaki shorts for a perfect travelling outfit.
