Fastow ordered to serve year in federal prison

By Kristen Hays THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — The wife of former Enron Corp. financial chief Andrew Fastow was ordered to serve a year in federal prison for helping her husband hide ill-gotten income.

U.S. District Judge David Hittner has ordered Lea Fastow to surrender July 12 to the detention center in Houston, which is in a gray high-rise about four blocks from Minute Maid Park. She pleaded guilty May 6 to a misdemeanor crime and Hittner sentenced her to the maximum of a year in prison.

Last month Hittner rejected her request that he recommend the Federal Bureau of Prisons place her at a minimum-security prison camp for women in Bryan, about 100 miles northwest of Houston.

The bureau ultimately chooses where inmates serve time, but prison officials try to accommodate a judge
