hit .043 on the night. "Guillard has limited range," said A&M head coach Laurie Corbelli. "She has good power and hits what she sees, but she's not as versatile as others in the Big 12." Felder finished the night with five service aces, tying a career high. The Aggies as a team recorded a season-high 12 aces. "We realized that's something we needed to change," Corbelli said. "We knew we needed to be more aggressive when we go back to serve."

Felder said her technique is to keep the ball from spinning and hit it hard in the middle, basically to serve up a knuckleball.

"That's what I love doing," Felder said. "A serve is an important way to start, and you can set the tone really well with a tough serve."

Corbelli said her squad started slow in part because it was too tight to start the game.

"We knew that in the end, we'd come out on top," said senior Melissa Munsch, who led the team with 10 digs. "Being back at home, we maybe were trying a little too hard to win."

Corbelli said it's her job not to be affected by the nerves, even before an important game.

"I could see we weren't there yet; it just takes some patience," Corbelli said. "If I'm not going to have it, then the team isn't going to have it."

It also seemed like another day at the office for junior outside hitter Laura Jones, who tallied 14 kills to lead the team for the eighth time this season.

"I just go out there and have fun," Jones said. "The setters give me the ball more than the others because I'm kind of the last resort out there. I like to have fun, and I think it gets the other girls real excited."

Astros upends Cardinals 6-4

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros pushed closer to a playoff berth, winning their club-record 15th straight home game by beating the St. Louis Cardinals 6-4 Wednesday night behind Jeff Kent and

Jeff Bagwell. The Astros temporarily tied San Francisco for the NL wild-card lead. Houston also moved a half-game ahead of the slumping Chicago Cubs, who lost their second straight to Cincinnati earlier in the day. Bagwell had a run-scoring single in the seventh and Lance Berkman followed with an RBI double to help the Astros eclipse their best home winning streak set in 1980 at the Astrodome.
