CIVIL WAR
CONTINUED

At the unveiling of the new memorial, BVVM will also host T. Michael Parrish, an American history professor from Baylor, to speak about those who fought in the war, including "citizen soldiers."

"The topic I will talk about at the memorial focuses on the citizens," Parrish said. "Citizens who volunteered, were encouraged to volunteer or even drafted to serve and fight in the Civil War and how it affected the history of our nation."

Although the memorial is dedicated to a conflict from more than 100 years ago, Parrish said it is still relevant to the United States today.

"I hope that students will attend, and I hope they will gain a better understanding and appreciation for veterans," Parrish said. "And I hope that they understand why the Veterans Association unveils Civil War memorial veterans that need to be honored — not only living veterans, but veterans who are passing away and have long since left the scene."

PROVIDED

Volunteers move one of the statues, which will be stationed at Veterans Park.

Beachy said BVVM has more projects in mind for the coming year.

"This memorial isn't our last piece, we're looking to do a World War I memorial soon," Beachy said. "What we're hoping to also do is to get students, specifically the Class of 2018 since they're going to be around longer, to possibly consider making this their sponsored project because that would be a wonderful thing to see A&M get involved in that way."

The memorial will be unveiled at 11:30 a.m. Thursday at Veterans Park. The event is free and open to the public.
